

We're making a difference.

A short time ago, hardly anyone had even heard about breast cancer in men. If a man faced a diagnosis, he felt embarrassed, alone, afraid to tell anyone—sometimes not even those closest to him. We're working hard to change all that. We're determined to make a difference in the lives of men, their care partners, and their families. MOST importantly—we're working to save lives around the world through global partnerships, support, connection, advocacy, and education. And we won't stop until there's a cure for breast cancer, for everyone.

of breast cancer*

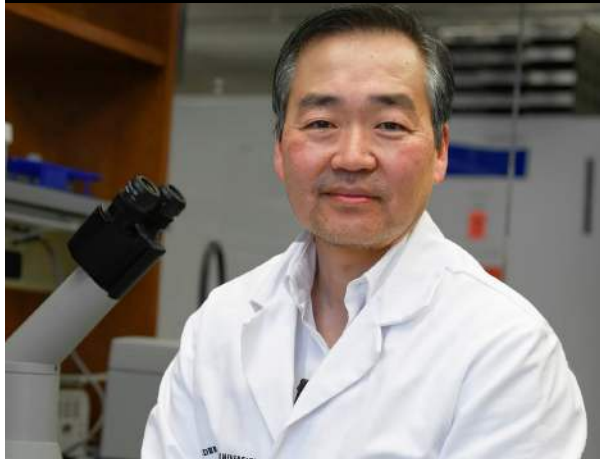

We're on a mission.

The Male Breast Cancer Global Alliance brings men with breast cancer together with researchers, clinicians, and oncologists around the world for the purpose of advancing research, clinical trials and treatments for men diagnosed with breast cancer.

We advocate for all men diagnosed with breast cancer to ensure they receive equal access to support and treatment; serve as a source of support and resources for the men, their care partners, and families; and recruit volunteer “ambassadors” to increase awareness on a global scale.

We're changing the face of breast cancer.

We fight for men to be considered and included in breast cancer-related research and clinical trials.

We bring together “like-minded” researchers to foster collaboration on developing life-saving treatments for breast cancer.

We engage in legislative advocacy work at the state and federal levels to ensure that men have equal access to diagnostic and treatment care.

We develop survivor and care partner volunteers who assist with advocacy efforts and support, and help increase awareness on a global scale.

We attend major oncology and breast cancer conferences to keep abreast of the latest scientific developments.

We present an annual MBCGA Virtual Conference that connects male survivors, their families, friends, and supporters to leading medical professionals and organizations from all over the world.

You can help.

We need your help to keep doing all that we can to ensure that men are part of the breast cancer dialogue, and receive equal access to breast cancer diagnostic and treatment care.
